PRESS KIT DJ ALDO

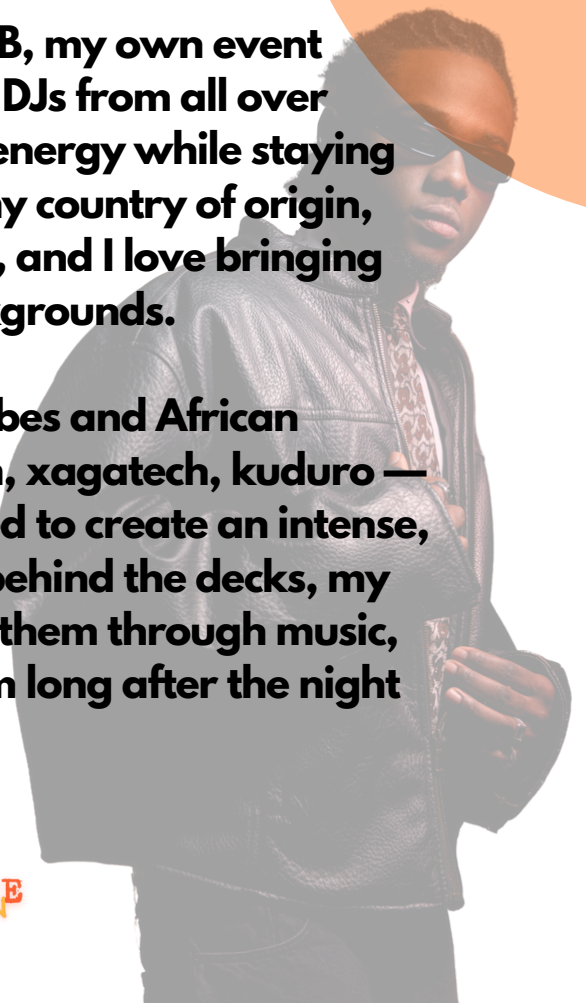

CARABEAN MUSIC , AFROBEAT, AFRO HOUSE, US/UK, RNB

My name is Aldel, but in the music world, I'm known as Aldo. I was born in Paris 26 years ago and grew up surrounded by the sound of vinyl and a rhythm in my soul. I touched my first turntable eight years ago, and since that day, music has never left my life. I started out on the hip-hop and R&B scene, where I learned to read the crowd, feel the energy in every room, and turn each set into an experience.

Over the years, I've had the chance to bring my energy to the decks as a resident DJ in clubs like L'Entrepôt and Le Five, where I built my own musical identity. But some of my most iconic experiences remain in the "no clubbing" format, performing on concert stages like the Rockstore in Montpellier or La Rayonne in Lyon. It was also at the Delta Festival in Marseille that I won my first Red Bull Turn It Up, a DJ battle that led me to victory at the French finals in Nantes, on the legendary Warehouse stage. These moments confirmed that passion and perseverance can turn a dream into reality.

Now based in Montpellier, I created TSARA JAB, my own event concept. Through this project, I bring together DJs from all over France, aiming to create a warm, welcoming energy while staying open to everyone. I also share the sounds of my country of origin, Madagascar, which I discovered with wonder, and I love bringing them to life in my sets for audiences of all backgrounds.

Musically, my sets are a blend of Caribbean vibes and African electronic music — afrobeat, amapiano, gqom, xagatech, kuduro — where every transition, every drop, is designed to create an intense, vibrant, and unifying atmosphere. When I'm behind the decks, my goal is simple: to make people dance, connect them through music, and deliver an experience that stays with them long after the night ends.
